Thom to omer p

Countn

Sentinu

Two Dollars, if paid at the end of the year.

ROCKVILLE, MARYLAND, FRIDAY, MORNING, JANUARY 6, 1860.

Vol. V.--No. 23

THE SENTINEL

Is published every Friday morning at One Dellar and Fifty Cents per annum, i paid within six months from the time of subscribing, or Two Dollars if not paid until the expiraion of the year. No paper discontinued until all arrearages are paid, unless at the option of

The American Strate Conspicuonale Interted at the rate of one dollar per square for the first here insertions, and twenty-five cents for evere subsequent insertion. Twelve lines to conitute a square. If the number of insertions be not marked upon them, they will be conti-

Doctrn.

THE DYING YEAR.

From the old woods, dim and lonely, Comes a moan;
There the whole are sighing only,
"Supports gone!"
All the bright and sumy hours,
And the grein and leafy bowers.
With the Schoolst had do do so.

And the grein stal leafy bowers.
With the Summer's layest flowers,
Are fided-how;
And he brow
Of the Waning year
Has been twined with dying leaves;
And the gathering of the singues
Tells us Autumn's here.

you like to stake on a card?"

"I will, presently," replied Faulkner.

the game, and after looking on a short cards. Morten knew something about loop har, and scizing a glass of water,

The part of the

izing way, looking at Failting. The Thoughts of spicife had entered the also of voices, [North and South, speak of it solved, slavely will not thereby be aboling that meet of partiagn that meet of partiagn and posting way, looking at Failting. The Thoughts of spicife had entered the also of voices, [North and South, speak of it solved, slavely will not thereby be aboling the containing about a hundred dollars in brother, when the timely and fortunate thing to be desired. Such parties have may think a long farewell to all its great ends; but this man Helper, as though dust, and banding it to the deslers, said discovery took place.

"Give me cein for that, if you ploase."

From that time neither John nor Morsial advantages derived from this Union of rants!

The dealer weighed the dist if a pair of too had auglitty do with the gaming to States on estimates. "Give me ce in for that, if you plonse." From that time neither John nor Moradvantages derived from this Union of rants!

The dealer weighed the dust in a pair of too had aught to do with the gaming to-States, nor the years, perhaps the ages and the former immediately gave up of horrors that would follow its dissolution." Are the American people now un-withing the same State, and advising

These are questions, that should be

As to the Helper book to which you As the Helper book to which you he game, and after looking on a short threw it in Morton's face.

We fear the domestic crils that now well considered, not only by every lover refer, have not read it through; but it ime, he asked:

"I this galme open to all?"

"Certainly, said the dealer, "would out like to stake on a card?"

"I will, presently," replied Faulkner.

"Make your game, gendemen. Stake of the world, and not known the all events, his political influence would are allowed, in a patrons whereasours of each other for four years ing way, looking at Faulkner. The